

Anti-Racist Allies and Accomplices in Connecticut History: Graphic Organizer

Directions: As you read the four sources, complete the organizer below. For each source, identify evidence that demonstrates Orrin and Jerusha Robinson and Prudence Crandall as allies and accomplices in the fight for racial equity. Then, write a claim that argues whether the Robinsons and Crandall should be remembered as allies or accomplices.

Definitions
Ally
Accomplice

Orrin and Jerusha Robinson
Source: Lloyd E. Baldwin, April 1, 1896		Source: "Orrin and Jerusha Robinson and the Methodist Melee on Main Street"
Ally	Accomplice	Ally	Accomplice

Prudence Crandall
Source: Advertisement and Notice Regarding the Opening of a "High School for Young Colored Ladies and Misses," The Liberator (March 2, 1833)		Source: Prudence Crandall, "Letter to Simeon Jocelyn (April 17, 1833)," published in "Abolition Letters Collected by Captain Arthur B. Spingarn," Journal of Negro History, vol. XVIII, 1933, p. 82-84.
Ally	Accomplice	Ally	Accomplice

Your Claim: Should the Robinsons and Crandall be remembered as allies or accomplices?
---	--